

Nation Celebrates Armistice Day RECORD VOTE AT CITY PRIMARIES Eight Men Killed by Drinking Cider

BIG VOTE EXPECTED IN THE CITY PRIMARY ELECTION TODAY

Weather is Ideal and Great Enthusiasm is Manifested
—Polls Do Not Close Until 8 O'Clock This Evening—Candidates Made Garrison Finish Last Night

If beautiful weather and enthusiasm are elements to be reckoned with, and usually they are helpful to any cause, the vote cast today in the city primary election should bulk larger than any other primary poll ever registered in Lowell. The polls do not close until 8 p. m.

Indications that this would be so were seen this forenoon during the first hour of voting in popular neighborhoods and at noon, two hours after the opening of the polls, more than 200 votes had been cast in the two big republican districts included

In Precinct 2 of Ward 8 and Precinct 3 of Ward 3. Other precincts were coming along correspondingly well, with increased activity looked for in the middle of the afternoon and continuous and heavy voting between 5 and 8 p. m., the last hour being the closing time.

Every care and precaution has been taken by the board of election commissioners to make for good facilities and comfortable balloting and in addition strict orders have been issued to precinct officers as to the procedure.

SIX YEARS SINCE LAST SHOT WAS FIRED IN WORLD WAR

No Public Observance Here of Armistice Day—Exercises in the High and Other Public Schools—Legion Ball This Evening—Other Programs

This is Armistice day, the day of remembrance of the nation, Thanksgiving, and the joy of living in a land at peace with all the world.

A day, also, for joyous anniversary observances, of patriotic programs commemorative of the epochal November 11, 1918, when the World war, with all its tragedies, its vain hopes and aspirations, came to an end and warring nations bowed to the King of Peace.

Appropriate exercises in observance of the day were held in the schools, and patriotic men and women of Lowell, veterans of all wars, members of patriotic societies and civic institutions as well as religious and fraternal organizations, are remembering in many ways, the anniversary of the great day, when the enemy of peace gave up the losing struggle for the conquest of the world.

WILL GREET PRESIDENT

Parent-Teachers Associations Will Have State Federation Head as Guest

A banner event in the history of Parent-Teacher associations in this city and vicinity is planned for Thursday afternoon at 2:30 at the Bartlett school, Wamsland street, when the combined local associations will have as their guest the president of the state federation of Parent-Teacher associations, Mrs. Edward French of Andover.

Mrs. French is perhaps more familiar with parent-teacher problems than any other person in the state owing to her position as president of the state federation, and the committee in charge of Thursday's event assure the members of local associations that in the talk she will deal with many problems which have come before the local association members.

As a second feature on the program, the committee in charge has secured the services of Mrs. Nana Gallagher Leahy, who will entertain with a number of solos. Miss Ruth Douglis will accompany her at the piano.

Every member of local associations is urged by the committee in charge of the reception of the state president to avail themselves of the opportunity offered to meet Mrs. French and hear her talk on the problems of Parent-Teacher associations.

LAZARAKIS IN CANADA

Man Wanted Here for Grand Larceny Said to Be Living Near Montreal

John F. Lazarakis, a prominent Mattet street merchant who absconded with one hundred thousand dollars of his compatriots' money a little over a year ago has been located in Canada, near Montreal, according to word received. He has not been arrested, but was seen by Lowell visitors in Canada a short time ago, and the police have been put on his trail. If he is taken into custody in the Dominion, extradition proceedings undoubtedly will get under way, as the local police have a warrant out for him on a complaint charging grand larceny.

Lazarakis is alleged to have duped unsuspecting residents of Lowell's Greek community to invest large sums of money in an original get-rich-quick scheme. For years, he conducted a steamship ticket agency in Market street and was held in high esteem by fellow members of the community. Suddenly he disappeared and with him went the money of several wage-earners, who have despaired of ever recovering their losses.

HOW THEY "DOLLED UP" 5000 YEARS AGO

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—Women of the world's first civilization used rouge elaborately, beaded eyelashes, manicured their hands and wore ornate costumes, according to discoveries made in excavation of the ancient Sumerian city of Kish by the Field Museum-Oxford University expedition reported to D. C. Davies, director of the museum here.

Women had equal rights in the earliest known empire, it has developed by finding cylinder seals used for legal and property transactions in the tombs of women.

Vandy ensembles, containing red, black and green pigments, have been found in the tombs. Jeweled hair pins, silver band rings, beads of lapis lazuli, carnelian, serpentine and jasper, ear rings and bracelets, taken from the tombs, have given excavators definite ideas regarding the modes of feminine adornment in 5000 B. WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—The capital's participation today in the nation-wide celebration of Armistice day centered, as heretofore, about the tomb of the unknown soldier in Arlington National cemetery. In addition, numerous patriotic exercises similar to those in other cities, were arranged by various organizations and foreign groups, and the day also marked the opening of the annual roll call of the American Red Cross.

The unknown soldier's tomb was the shrine for many pilgrimages, led by the annual visit of the president, in accordance with a custom established by President Harding. Only a few high in official life, including Secre-

CHICAGO GUNMAN SHOT TO DEATH

Police Search for Three Men Involved in Murder of Dion O'Bannon

Gang Rivalry, Beer Runners' Feuds, and Fight Over Woman Theories Followed

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—Gang rivalry, beer runners' feuds, gambling troubles and a fight for lieutenant's of rival gangs over a woman were the theories followed by police today in their search for the three men who yesterday shot and killed Dion O'Bannon, notorious gunman and gambler, in his flower shop.

While they sought Mike Carrozo, labor leader, and Margaret Collins, pretty blonde, involved in a fight eight months ago with Louis Antero and John Bates, alleged lieutenants of O'Bannon, the police took precautions to prevent more killings in reprisal.

All known enemies of O'Bannon, questioned after the shooting, have been released today when they satisfied investigators they had no connection with it.

But as police inquiry progressed it was disclosed that more than the three men were after firing six bullets into O'Bannon may have been involved in the actual slaying.

EIGHT VETERAN MEMBERS OF ELKS KILLED BY POISONED CIDER

Residents of Elks National Home at Bedford, Va., Die From What is Thought to Have Been Fresh Cider Poisoned by Compound Used for Tree Spraying

LYNCHBURG, Va., Nov. 11.—Eight veteran members of the Elks organization, residents of the Elks National Home at Bedford, Va., died late yesterday at the home from what is thought to have been fresh cider poisoned by a compound used for tree spraying. The cider, it was said, was bought from a farmer. The barrel is believed to have been used last spring in connection with the spraying. Several other residents of the home are ill from the poisoning.

Seventeen of the inmates who drank said they are satisfied there was no suicidal intention in using it and there seemed to be no likelihood of an inquest into the deaths of the eight men.

RULES HOME BREW MAY BE MORE THAN ONE-HALF OF ONE PER CENT

Alcoholic Content Clause in Volstead Law Interpreted By Baltimore Jurist in Trial of Rep. Hill For Alleged Violations of Act

BALTIMORE, Nov. 11.—In the trial of Representative John Philip Hill in the United States court here today, for alleged violations of the Volstead act, Judge Morris A. Soper ruled that the one-half of one per cent. clause in the Volstead law does not apply to beverages made in the home for home consumption.

Judge Soper said: "Congress seems to have used the word 'non-intoxicating' differently in one section than it did in another. To say that persons manufacturing and selling exclusively for use in their homes should be in a class by themselves, or otherwise there is no apparent need for this section (Section 29)."

"The only reasonable explanation for congress singling out home-made elder and wine makers is that congress did not intend to punish men for such manufacture unless the beverage is intoxicating in fact."

"This opinion seems to be borne out by an opinion expressed in the United States Senate in September, 1919, when the Volstead act was being debated, by the chairman of the committee in charge of the bill. He expressed the opinion when this section was added to the bill by amendment that elder and fruit juices made exclusively for use in the home must be 'non-intoxicating in fact.'"

The ruling was the result of a lengthy argument yesterday by counsel for Hill and United States District Attorney Ames W. Woodcock. The government chemists testified that Colonel Hill's home-made wine had an alcoholic content as high as eleven per cent.

Hill's defense was based on the ambiguity of Section 29 of the Volstead act which permits the manufacture of home-made fruit juices and elder, provided they are non-intoxicating, but forbids their sale to any one except those who have a permit to make vinegar from the elder.

FIREMEN ARE FIGHTING BAD BRUSH FIRE

Firemen of the local department are today combating one of the most stubborn brush fires which has ever occurred within the city limits. The fire is in scrub-windmill, near the old trotting park off Varnum avenue and despite the efforts of Hose Company 10 and firemen recruited from the other stations in the city, who have been on the scene since 3:45 this morning, it is still burning briskly over a considerable area.

Buildings in the vicinity of the fire are in no danger, according to the firemen, and it is expected to have the fire extinguished before daylight, unless the wind should gain in velocity and cause the blaze to get out of control.

NATIONAL COUNCIL OF CATHOLIC WOMEN

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 11.—Reports from the diocesan councils and national organizations and addresses pertaining to educational questions were on the program of today's sessions of the National Council of Catholic Women.

Catholic activities in rural districts, the council's work in the field of immigration and the relation of the private school to the 14th amendment of the constitution also were discussed. Right Rev. Joseph Schrembs, bishop of Cleveland, referred in an address last night to Klan activities and the measures voted on in several states last Tuesday aimed at what he declared abolition of the parochial school. "The greatest element of growing danger," he said, "is the increasing lack of religion of the American population, the loss of faith and belief in God and the things that flow from that belief."

"In the city of Detroit, supposed to be the hub of the Klan system, some people seem to be afraid to mention it. I am not afraid to mention the Klan no more than I would be afraid to mention a rattlesnake that threatens to strike at me. They were beaten three to one."

NATION MUST BE STRONG IN ORDER TO PROTECT ITS OWN LIFE

Armistice Day Message By James A. Drain, National Commander of The American Legion—Legion
Can Be Depended Upon to Help Keep Country at Peace

BY JAMES A. DRAIN
National Commander, The American Legion

Six years ago today the peoples of the world nations rejoiced as only those who have suffered long may rejoice. Prayers—prayers full of strength and sincerity—burst from millions of throats that such a blight on the world as had just ended should never again darken the pages of history.

Six years ago tomorrow those same people started to forget. The lessons that four years of terror, famine and heartlessness had taught began to disappear.

The price in lives to our country, almost 600,000 killed, wounded and disabled, was lost sight of in the rush to regain prewar levels. There was excess cost in money to billions on billions. The country had paid this dearly for its impatience with anything resembling unpreparedness. That fact is undeniable.

We men of the American Legion, who know the terrible war is, count it among our blessings that ours is a peaceful nation.

We may be depended upon to help keep it at peace by every means that lies within our power.

But we know, as none can better know, that if this nation is to protect its own life and be able to enforce its will for good upon recalcitrant nations, it must be strong, not only in purpose but in actual military preparation for the inevitable war which will some day be forced upon us.

JAMES A. DRAIN

UNVEIL MEMORIAL TO SLAIN LEGIONNAIRES

CENTRALIA, Washn., Nov. 11.—Sorrow for the killing of four members of the American Legion in an Armistice parade here five years ago today was expressed in a telegram from President Coolidge received by Great Lodge post, American Legion.

"When, on Armistice day, you unveil a memorial in memory of four veterans of the World war who were murdered five years ago today, I wish to be among those who will join in the expression of profound sorrow for the loss of these heroic lives and of gratitude that their memory is thus to be perpetuated," said the message.

World Celebrates Armistice Day

tury Wilbur and Dwight Davis, acting secretary of war, as representative of the two military branches of the government, were invited to accompany Mr. Coolidge on his simple mission at home.

Services in memory of Woodrow Wilson in the national cathedral, where he is buried, were arranged by the committee, which, prior to his death, took charge of the Armistice day pilgrimages to his home in St. Louis.

None of the government departments closed for the day, President Coolidge having found that he lacked authority to declare a holiday in the absence of action by congress.

Full Holiday in France
PARIS, Nov. 11.—(By the Associated Press)—Armistice day this year is for the first time a full holiday in France. Today everything is closed except the places of amusement. The main feature of the celebration in Paris will be at the tomb of the unknown soldier in the Arc de Triomphe, with President Doumergue, Premier Herriot and the cabinet marshals, generals and members of the diplomatic corps in attendance.

New York's Program
NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—New York's armistice day program included two minutes of silence at 11 o'clock, ushered in by radio broadcasting of taps and a bugle call, with every activity in the city ceasing for the period of contemplation.

Patriotic, civic, religious and business organizations were prepared to join with city officials in the celebration and every section of the city planned exercises commemorating the day on which hostilities ceased six years ago. Although many business offices requested their employees to cease whatever work they are doing at 11 o'clock for two minutes in which to ponder the deeds of the nation's heroes, few offices closed for the day. The Consolidated and Cotton exchanges planned to cease trading for two minutes.

Legal Holiday in Philadelphia
PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 11.—Unveiling of tablets, parades of war veterans, patriotic exercises and a gathering of war mothers at the Philadelphia navy yard marked the celebration of Armistice day in this city. Nearly every post of the American Legion had prepared special programs while the churches which erected tablets in honor of their members who served in the war planned to decorate the pinnacles and offer prayers for those who died in the service.

Banks and many industrial establishments were closed, the day being a legal holiday in Pennsylvania.

Informal Exercises in Boston
BOSTON, Nov. 11.—Although there was no official observance of the sixth anniversary of Armistice day scheduled in Boston, informal exercises were arranged by patriotic organizations especially those of World war veterans. The principal ceremony planned for was that held on Boston common under the auspices of the Military Order of the World War. Detachments from local units of the army and navy and of the Marine corps were assigned to assist in the observance.

The flying crew of the world cruiser "Boston," Lieutenant Leigh Wade and Lieutenant Hugh Ogden, were to have taken part in the celebration here in the city which they represented on the world flight, but they wired Mayor Curley that they had been "too overwhelmed with hospitality in the west" that they had been indefinitely delayed.

G.A.R. Vet of 100 Unveils Monument
VERNAL, Utah, Nov. 11.—Attired in the immortal blue uniform of the union army with which he served during the Civil war, Dr. H. C. Hullinger—who on December 2 will be 100 years old—today was the central figure at the unveiling here of a memorial monument erected in memory of Utah county men who died during the World war. Dr. Hullinger is reported to be the oldest practicing physician in America.

LEGION BALL TONIGHT

Several State and County
Officers Will Be Guests of Honor

Members of Lowell post 87, American Legion, are prepared to entertain tonight in Memorial Auditorium, a host of friends of the local veterans' organization, in commemoration of the sixth anniversary of the armistice that ended the World war. The concert and ball this evening actually opens the social season in Lowell.

Nothing has been left undone by active Legion committees and friends of Post 87 assisting in many ways, to make the Armistice ball a record-breaker, both in attendance and attractive features. For the first time in the history of the annual gatherings at Memorial Auditorium on Armistice night, the local World war veterans and ladies will entertain many high officials in the state department ranks.

State Commander Leo M. Harlow and Vice-Commander Francis A. Good of Cambridge, William McGinnis of Lawrence and Richard H. Paul of Canton, will be present as invited guests and will be royally entertained as only Lowell post 87 knows how to entertain in a military and fraternal. The American Legion since leaders will arrive in time to participate in the beautifully impressive Armistice day ceremony, which takes place at 11 o'clock tonight.

Col. Alexander Greff and Col. Frank D. Watson have been detailed by the First Corps Area headquarters, U.S.A., to represent the commanding general at the Legion ball tonight.

(Associated Press) Tens of thousands of the people of London gathered today around the cenotaph in sorrowful, yet proud remembrance of their one million kin who died in the war that came to an end six years ago.

Whitehall was thronged its length by subjects of the far-flung British Empire, most of whom wore red poppies bought with pennies and pence to help the men who came away, halt, lame and blind, from the fields of Flanders and from the other battlefields of the great war.

At the core of the crowd stood the King, his wife and two elder sons, the Prince of Wales, the Duke of York, placed wreaths at the foot of the cenotaph just before Sir Ben in his tower rising above the houses of parliament, tolled eleven, the hour which ended the greatest of wars.

The day's tribute to those who fell in the war is to be marked this evening, for many Londoners, by joyful remembrance of the day when the guns ceased to fire over the fields of France.

Chicago's Celebration
CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—A minute of silence with all traffic halted and business suspended, special observances by veterans' bodies and programs by various organizations marked Chicago's celebration of armistice day.

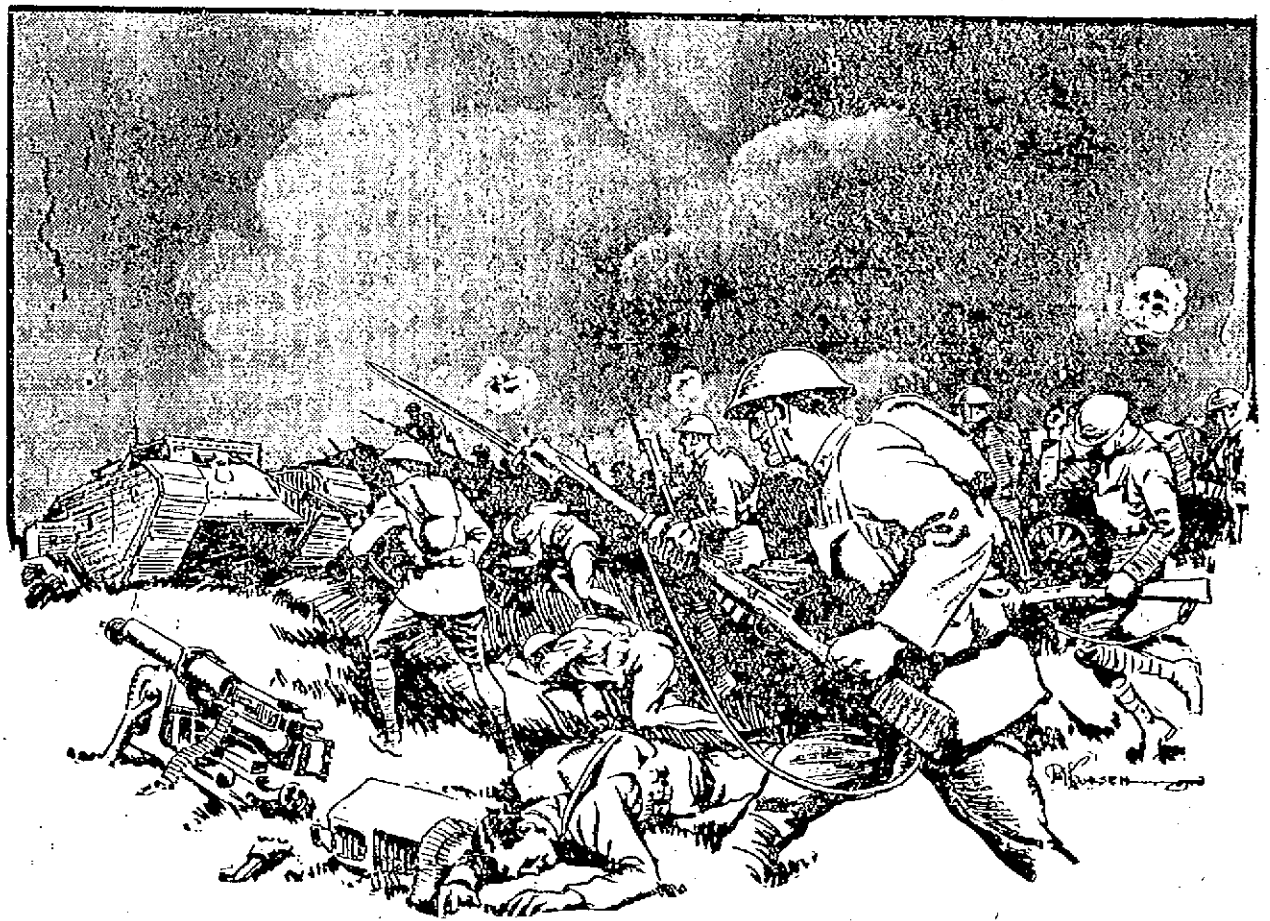

Bank, the stock exchange, the board of trade and all schools were closed. Public functions included a program of trade and all schools were closed. Public functions included a program by the 22nd field artillery, school children's exercises and banquets tonight.

Vice-President-elect Dawes will attend a dinner of the Evanston, Ill., American Legion post tonight.

Celebration in Ireland
DUBLIN, Nov. 11.—For the first time since the end of the war, armistice day today was generally celebrated throughout the Free State, with memorial demonstrations in Dublin and elsewhere. Thousands of poppies were sold, the wearers including republicans as well as Free State.

The day's program in Dublin included a parade of ex-service men and placing of a wreath on the cross in College Green by General Hinkley, who commanded the Irish Sixteenth division.

THE BOYS WHO ENDED THE WAR

Six Years Since Last Shot Was Fired in World War

women served valiantly in the war with Germany and the central allies. Not all of the valiant souls that went across the Atlantic to France and fought in glorious war for the right, returned to the home fires. None have been forgotten, whether alive and patriotically serving their country and the cause of peace today, or lie beneath the poppies in Flanders hallowed ground under Freedom's eternal protection.

Today, Lowell remembers the deeds of brave American soldiers, as always, but Armistice day is a day for great rejoicing also, and while the city as a municipality has arranged no formal observance of the anniversary, many citizens have arranged patriotic programs that will draw generous patronage to halls and public gathering places, including Memorial Auditorium this evening. Briefly, Lowell citizens, one and all, do not forget to observe Armistice day in one way or another, many by erecting the Stars and Stripes over buildings in residential and business districts.

The most elaborate program on the list of Armistice day entertainments of a patriotic nature is, of course, the sixth annual concert and ball to be conducted by the World war veterans affiliated with Lowell post 87, American Legion. Memorial Auditorium will be the rallying place this evening for post members and friends, and also a host of military guests from other sections of Massachusetts, to participate in the events scheduled to emphasize once more Lowell's patriotism and loyalty to flag, country and the heroes who sleep in France. A special memorial to the honored dead will be given at 11 p. m.

Grace Universalist church on Princeton street, will tonight observe Armistice day with a men's club supper and entertainment. A guest and speaker will be Howard T. Sand.

The Centralville Social club members will rally in their clubrooms in Lakeview avenue, and after the business meeting scheduled, will observe the day with appropriate exercises. There will be speakers on patriotic subjects, it is expected.

At the Y. M. C. A. it will be "Fathers and Sons' Night," advertised as an observance of Armistice day, that will contain many features, both patriotic and entertaining. There will also be games and sports in the "gym" and luncheon. Armistice day programs have been issued in souvenir form.

Many roads will lead to the Girls' City club rooms tonight, when Armistice day will be elaborately celebrated. "The men folks" are to be entertained, and they will participate in the patriotic exercises. Just to please the visitors who belong to the gender male, the Girls' club reception committee has arranged to receive and bulletin all the latest returns from the polling places tonight.

In the surrounding towns, citizens young and old will gather in public places including the town halls, and observe Armistice day with appropriate programs to which will be added entertainment featuring music and dancing featuring many celebrations in Billerica, Dracut, Chelmsford, Westford and North Chelmsford.

Billerica post, American Legion, is been told for this popular affair. The cert and ball, and many tickets have been sold to this popular affair. The veterans expect many guests from Boston and Somerville, and also from nearby towns, as usual.

Tyngsboro granaries will rally tonight in the town hall and celebrate the day appropriately. There will be special patriotic numbers on the program of entertainment to follow the regular business session. The entertainment for tonight's Armistice day rally, is "Massachusetts."

Hotels and restaurants have prepared for the influx of many out-of-town visitors to Lowell this evening. Armistice day celebrations and the Legion ball always attract many men and women from surrounding towns. Special dinners and entertainments will feature the public dining room hosts' program all evening.

Many fraternal societies are holding "open house" this afternoon and will continue to entertain this evening. No special programs have been arranged for the local clubs, but members will entertain guests and there will be special music in some societies.

YARNUM SCHOOL

Tributes to Lowell's soldier dead were paid by the pupils and instructors of the Yarnum school in Centralville this afternoon, the program in formal observance of Armistice day being carried out with entire success and attracting many school visitors, most of them parents of the boys and girls appearing in the program numbers. The commemoration exercises started at 2:30 p. m., arranged in the following order:

Singing, "Battle Hymn of the Republic"; Reading of Governor Channing Cox's "Armistice Day Proclamation"; Singing, "America"; Remarks upon the subject: "Armistice Day—Why We Observe It," Principal Miss Elizabeth C. Kennedy; Singing, hymn of patriotism, "In Flanders Field"; and the answer.

Tribute to Centralville heroes of the World war. Taps, played by Cornetist Sylvester Barbera. Singing by pupils of grades 3 and 4. Pledge of allegiance to the Stars and Stripes.

Armistice Day Program

ary of the signing of the armistice six years ago, which on that day brought to the entire world joy and thankfulness.

The orchestra then played "Rock of the Marne," an inspiring march, under the direction of Frederick O. Blunt.

George Lapointe, of the class of 1925 followed with a reading, "The Flame of Remembrance," which told of the origin of the never dying flame over the grave of France's Unknown Hero. Accompanied by the orchestra which played interlarded music appropriate to the number, Mr. Lapointe proved very pleasing.

The play was then given and all the characters were most enjoyable. The sketch written by Lily Carthew and interpreted by post graduates was as educational as it was entertaining and proved that behind the "American Idea" there lives the true spirit of each individual. Abe Goldman as a economical father, despises the expression, "American Idea" offered as a solution to problems by Mother Goldman and daughter Mignon.

James Cantor acted well the part of a "supporting" father, while Zella Gustaf as Mignon, the daughter, was most pleasing.

Mary Coughlin, as Esther Goldman, the wife, who lives according to the "American idea, when father does not notice it, encounters many tangling situations because of her adherence to the American idea and the manner in which she clears herself of all blame, through the presence of mind of Abe, her husband, was most hilarious.

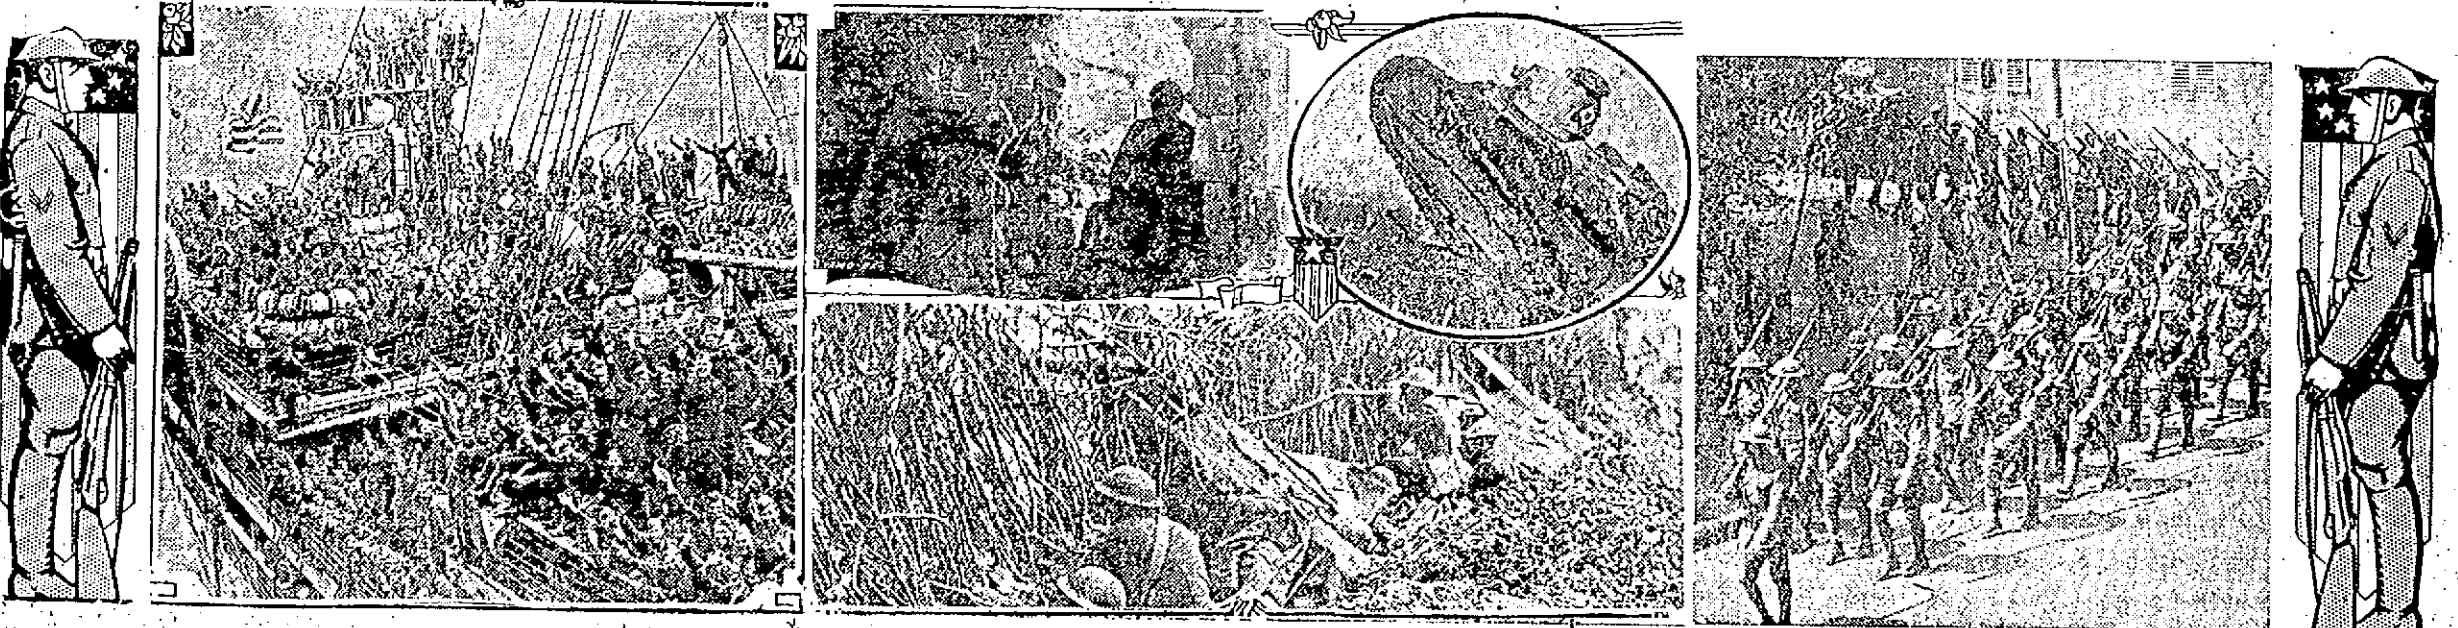

Thomas Sullivan, as Solly Rosenbaum, the prominent manufacturer who sought Mignon's hand in marriage is given a prompt exit from the home of his prospective father-in-law upon receipt by the latter of a telegram stating that Mignon has become Mrs. John Kelley.

Father refuses to meet the newly-weds but changes his mind when, in Kelley he recognizes an old friend of the family who has used the American idea to advantage and has changed his name to Kelley.

The scene was in the parlor of the Goldman home and the time the present.

"On Wisconsin," march was given as an exit number by the orchestra.

LIVING IN THE SPIRIT OF ROMANCE

The members of the Middlesex Women's club traveled in fancy to Wales at their regular meeting yesterday afternoon and danced merrily over its meadows with Queen Mab and her host of fairies, when Dr. J. B. Parry in an entertaining and instructive talk brought them across the ocean in his little double cottage and there by his friends recalled the stories of fancy which have made Wales the land of myth and delight that it is.

The oldest of a family of nine, Dr. Parry was born and reared in a typical single Welsh cottage, the type which was whitewashed yearly and whose floor was washed every Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock, scented and covered over with dog leaves. As the family grew so did the cottage and an oil was built to it in which Dr. Parry and some of his younger brothers moved.

In speaking of the myths which every Welshman believes in, although knowing they are but fairy tales, Dr. Parry said in part: "Every child wants to know the why and the how and the when. Today it is the custom to tell them the why and the how and the when in terms of psychology, but in Wales we tell them in mythical terms. We bring them up in the romance of the country. When I was a boy and asked how and why and when the coast of Wales was so beautifully formed my grandmother told me this: The coast was first straight, this being kept so by a wall built along the shore line which kept the sea out. Sentries were posted along this wall, and were under the supervision of two princes. One was loyal and true, the other was careless and merry. One prince forgot to see to his side of the wall and one day the sea seeped its way through a crevice and then the waves rolled in and broke upon the coast and wrecked the prince's castle. And today in the stones of the prince's castle, perhaps you will say this is not true, but the stones are there; who put them there?"

In equally interesting terms Dr. Parry told of the origin of the red dragon on the national emblem, which indicates that the Welsh are by nature strong, emotional and highly temperamental people.

Relating the superstitious beliefs of the people, the speaker told of the blackbird, considered an unlucky animal; the corpse's candle, first seen by an Episcopalian minister who arrived home later than he should have and being locked out of his home, slept with the hired man. During the night he imagined he saw a light emerge from the mouth of the man beside him. He followed the light, cut it in halves with a sword, and four days later the hired man was dead. Thus the origin of the corpse's candle which may be seen from time to time at night.

Dr. Parry also told of the horseman who rode the horse with the wooden legs, a sign of death by horse persons. The story of the fairies' ring where they dance at dawn and by moonlight which today can be seen in most any meadow, providing you can find the meadow, which was plowed over by a farmer, was also related, and proved most enchanting.

The story of the young married man who struck his wife three times after being warned by a mythical spirit not to do so, was but one of the many entertaining tales told by Dr. Parry.

The origin of the Dr. Parry and the black cat was also recounted and many other interesting tales of mythical Wales.

In closing, Dr. Parry said: "America is still a land in the making because people come and go, and everywhere new ideas are being introduced. Because we allow the rambling mechanical age to depress the heart of romance we are not able to understand the art and beauty of mythical story telling. It is worth while to live in the spirit of romance. You and I sit and weave today in the land of make-believe, a dream of things that will never come true and so every one sits and weaves. It is not until America turns to the age of romance that she will begin to live as a child, which you and I and everyone is."

In illustrating his many fanciful tales Dr. Parry exhibited miniature types of the little cottage, his home; the Welsh maiden, the black cat, the national emblem and other articles symbolical of the mythical beliefs of the Welsh people.

PRACTICAL NURSE ADDS TESTIMONY

Mrs. Crail Says Tanlac Is Without an Equal

Mrs. Hattie Crail, a highly successful and popular practical nurse, 22nd and Douglas Sts., Des Moines, Iowa, is another among the many of her admirable "profession" to endorse the Tanlac treatment.

"Following a period of severe nervous prostration two years ago," declared Mrs. Crail recently, "I was so weak, restless and uncertain of myself that I scarcely dared go on the street alone. I suffered from violent headaches and dizzy spells, and again from a condition of extreme drowsiness. For a time I was compelled to give up my work.

"But with Tanlac my recovery was surprisingly rapid, and soon my nerves were entirely normal, the pains left my head, my appetite and digestion became perfect and I was strong enough to resume my work of nursing. In short, Tanlac built me up so I have enjoyed sound health ever since."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 10 million bottles sold.

Y'S MEN'S CLUB HOLDS REGULAR MEETING

The Y's Men's club held its regular monthly meeting and supper in Y.M.C.A. hall last evening. Supper was served at 6:30 o'clock and at its conclusion, Pres. Joseph E. The club voted to attend the supper of the Women's auxiliary fair on Nov. 15 and also to co-operate with the dormitory men of the "Y" in putting on the annual minstrel show.

The principal speaker at the meeting was Edward J. Conroy, sales manager of the Lowell Gas Light Company, who gave an interesting talk on salesmanship. During the evening, a solo consisting of Mr. Atollingsworth, Harry Barton and Oscar Grinn entered, followed by a number of songs, Harry Kershaw accompanying at the piano.

ASST. SEC. OF THE NAVY

Bellevue T. D. Robinson,
Nephew of Theodore
Roosevelt to Be Selected

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Theodore Douglas Robinson, of New York, a nephew of President Theodore Roosevelt, has virtually been selected for assistant secretary of the navy.

Mr. Robinson, who is a son of Corinne Roosevelt Robinson, called today at the White House, and after a conference with President Coolidge went to the navy department to confer with Secretary Wilbur.

The post of assistant secretary has been vacant since late in September when Theodore Roosevelt resigned to make his unsuccessful campaign as republican nominee for governor of New York.

The appointment of Mr. Robinson would carry out what has become a Roosevelt tradition in the navy department. Theodore Roosevelt, who retired as assistant six weeks ago, was preceded in that post by Franklin D. Roosevelt, a democrat, and years ago the Theodore Roosevelt who later was president, also served as the department's second in command.

Mr. Robinson was born in 1883, was educated at Harvard, and has served in the New York state senate. He was chairman of the progressive state committee of New York in 1912. His wife was a Helen A. Roosevelt of New York.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

STRAND THEATRE

"Yoland," the latest starring vehicle of pretty and fascinating Marion Davies, is the feature picture on the current program at the Strand theatre. It is one of the most entertaining and artistic productions of the year and is given added attractiveness by the clever acting of Miss Davies, who is seen to even better advantage in this play than she was in "Little Old New York." If Miss Davies added to her stage prestige in "Little Old New York," say the critics, she reached the supreme achievement in "Yoland."

Replete with the romantic atmosphere of 19th century France, the picture is historical as well as entertaining. The story was adapted by Luther Reed from the novel by Charles Major. Marion Davies is pictured as Princess Mary of Burgundy, and as Yoland, a burglar maid. Displaying remarkable versatility, the star exhibits incomparable skill in executing the double role.

Action permeates the story throughout. Excitement follows excitement, with such episodes as the attack at the fair, the rescue by the handsome prince, the battle with ambushed bandits, the duel on horseback on the field of honor, the strategy of escape from the fortress stronghold, the death-leap of horsemen into deep waters surrounding the castle, and numerous other incidents that hold the undivided attention of the audience.

Notwithstanding the engaging personality of Miss Davies, the picture would not be completed without the valuable aid of an all-star supporting cast. With such talented actors as Halbrook Blinn, Lynn Harling, Ralph Graves, Johnny Dooley, Mary Kenne, Nina MacLaren, Mabel Arbuckle and others.

On the same program with "Yoland" is a real funny comedy picture, and an international news reel. A newly-arranged musical program, in accordance with the feature presentations, makes the program highly satisfactory.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE
"Tarnish," a First National super feature, and "Hold Your Breath," a feature comedy, are the features on the bill at the Merrimack square theatre the first of this week.

The first of the super feature productions to be shown here, "Tarnish" leaves the audience expecting of the picture to come. It is a story of life and love in the world of New York. Starring in this production are Marie Prevost, May McAvoy, Harry Hines, Norman Kerry and a number of other equally well known luminaries of the screen. The picture is from the stage play of the same name which held spellbound Broadway audiences for many months.

It is the story of a young man who is about to marry, and whose future is nearly wrecked by his earlier escapades with a gay butterfly. He is engaged to the daughter of an old irresponsible actor. She is a working girl, supporting both father and mother, and all the money her father can lay hands on goes to the studio which the daughter owns. He spends enjoying himself in cafes, spending a good part of it on the butterfly with whom the daughter's fiance had formerly been very friendly.

The old actor's daughter, "Tish," ascertaining how her father is spending her money, goes to the home of the butterfly and finds there her fiance, who has been wrecked by his earlier escapades with a gay butterfly. He is heart-broken to find her lover supposedly in the toils of the woman who has taken from her father the money that should have gone towards sustaining her home, refuses to listen to any explanation and rushes home. Later, however she relents when the young man brings the butterfly to her home and proves that he was innocent of all wrong, and the differences between Tish and her sweetest heart are straightened out as the picture comes to an end.

"Hold Your Breath" is rightfully named. You must hold your breath as you watch Dorothy Devore, playing the female lead, climb the wall of a skyscraper and go through a hundred other dare-devil feats as the picture progresses. Walter Hiers plays opposite Miss Devore in this picture and stars as the never has before. He makes the greatest "bit" of all when, as the leading lady climbs the walls of a skyscraper chasing a monkey which has run away with a bracelet she is accused of stealing, he calls out the fire department to effect a rescue and flies on the sidewalk tons of mattresses and hay so that, if she should fall, she would not be hurt. The other characters in this picture are played by Tully Marshall, Jimmie Adams, Jimmie Harrison and Priscilla Bonner.

Completing the program for the first of the week are an International News Weekly and a comedy.

R. F. KEENE'S THEATRE

Another top tip entertainment program has been arranged for Lowell theatre-goers and vaudeville lovers at the Keith house this week. Last week's show made a universal appeal, but it is felt that the one this week will stand out as the best of the season. Danny Duggan and Ann Aker, society dancing favorites, run through a series of colorful steps, with Freddie Sanborn helping out immeasurably with symphony accompaniments. A Spanish dance, a gavotte, polka, and modern jazz are included in their repertoire and as an added number last night they gave a slow waltz to "Merry Widow" and "Chocolate Soldier."

Jack McAllen and Sarah skip rapidly from comedy to roller skating and jaw's jump solos. They label their act "What-Not," and it is that and more. McAllen supplies the most of the comedy and Sarah makes an admirable foil. It is one of the best acts of the year.

Frank Richardson appears in black-face and calls himself the joy boy of song. He sings quite a flock of them, much after the style of Tolan and everyone goes over and goes over to the complete satisfaction of the audience.

William Edmunds & Co. in an Italian dialect skit get much comedy out of the piece, with Edmunds as the principal. "Peg o' My Sole" is the way it is captioned and the character portrayed by Edmunds is that of a cobbler. It is an admirable effort.

Miss Leigh De Lacy, formerly well known in stock productions, with many friends in Lowell, is assisted by Arthur Williams in the presenting of a Washington skit, "Swanking," that is uncommonly good. It is light and has to do with the efforts of a tourist to acquire all of the atmosphere of the capital in a few minutes.

Quelling the show are the Kismet sisters, presenting an equilibristic turn that has a distinct tendency to start the program going in the right direction. Their work was heartily appreciated last night.

"The Man Alone," starring Herbert Rosworth, is the feature motion picture.

LOEW'S HIALTO

With the screen production of "Hearts of Oak," James A. Hearn's well known melodrama, which opened at the Hialto theatre last night, there comes to the screen another great dramatic achievement of another age. In the William Fox production, this stage masterpiece takes the form of a high powered, modern drama. The action of which sweeps from the New England coast to the Arctic regions in one continuous series of heart throbs and thrills.

Hobart Rosworth, in the principal role of Terry Dunstun, exerts one of the strongest roles in his career, and as two-listed sea faring men, he has been seen in some of the most dramatic characters that have ever been put on the screen. Pauline Hearn, as Christine, is also excellent work. Others in the cast, all deserving of mention, are James Hearn, Francis Powers, Jennie Lee, Frances Tongue and Francis Ford.

"Hearts of Oak" is the story of a sturdy old retired seaman, Terry Dunstun, who has adopted a boy and a girl, to see them grow to manhood and womanhood. Christal, the girl, has been the apple of his eye and he has showered the affections of a father upon her only to realize, as she reaches beautiful maturity, that his love has turned to the love of a man for a woman. He tells her of his feelings, ignorant of the fact that Christal and Ned are enamored and asks her to marry him. The young couple, rather than interfere with the happiness of their benefactor, agree to sacrifice their own love and Christal marries Terry. Ned, consumed in his grief, goes away and takes to drink. It is not until Terry finds him, broken, that he learns of the sacrifice of his children. The method he takes to rectify his wrong results in a high powered drama that will make your heart beat and bring tears to your eyes.

The virile William Farnum is the star of the added feature, "The Gun-Builder," and he has a role that is seen as an adventurer who suddenly finds himself mixed up in a family feud, when he falls in love with a girl who belongs to one of the families.

One of H. C. Witwer's highly popular humorous stories, "Fighting Blood," is also on the bill as well as an extremely funny comedy and a Fox News.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE
"Irene," pretty musical comedy—the show which captivated cultured New York, Chicago and Boston audiences for two years, and a show which can never grow old is being presented in the Lowell Opera House by the Stanley James players and an augmented chorus this week.

Miss Desmoude, leading lady of the James players, portrays the difficult, but fascinating role of "Irene," and to her character she gives all the skill and grace that have marked her best successes in the past. She makes a lovely Irene, an outstanding star in a dramatic of beauty unrivaled even in more pompous metropolitan productions. As the leading man, Mr. Gerald Rowan accends to new heights in this gayest of musical comedies. Although he does not appear in any of the musical numbers of the theme, he imparts light and enjoyable comedy. Jack West is exceptionally good in the role of Madame Lucy, a Fifth Avenue gown designer, who sings and dances in typical musical comedy style. In fact, the entire company including Wilmer Walters, Miss Russell and Miss Fontaine, exceed all previous efforts and with new admirers by their presentation. The dancers, the Misses Chandonette, Foster and Allen, give a variety of pleasing numbers that delight the audience.

Judging by the success of the production last night, "Irene" is bound to win favor with local theatregoers. It is something different from the orinary run of stage play, and gives Lowell audiences an opportunity to witness the wonderful versatility of the James players. Because of the unprecedented demand for seats, patrons are advised to make reservations early by calling 7640, and thereby avoid the disappointment of seeing the greatest musical comedy ever produced, "Irene."

The cast of characters is as follows: Donald Marshall . . . Mr. Gerald Rowan
Robert Harrison . . . Mr. Wilmer Walters
J. P. Bowden . . . Mr. Harry Fisher
Lawrence Hadley . . . Mr. J. Dumas Hammond
Clarkson . . . Mr. Claude Miller
Irene O'Dare . . . Miss Lillian Desmoude
Helen Cheston . . . Miss Dorothy Russell

BALTIMORE BAND WILL COME TO LOWELL

FILES BRIEF IN SUIT TO EDUCATE PERSIAN AGAINST DAUGHERTY STUDENTS HERE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Former Attorney-General Wickersham filed in the supreme court today the brief as counsel for the government in the case brought against M. S. Daugherty to test the power of the senate to summon witnesses and compel them to produce books.

Each house of congress has the power, Mr. Wickersham contended, to conduct investigations in aid of its legislative functions and to compel the attendance before it of witnesses and the production of books and papers which might throw light upon the subject under inquiry. This power, he said, is subject to protection against invasion by unreasonable searches and seizures, self-incrimination and such rights. The investigation ordered by the senate, he said, in the course of which the testimony of Daugherty and the production of books and records of the Midland National bank of Washington, D. C., of which he was president, were required, was legislative in character and strictly within the authority of a congressional committee.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Reparations due to the United States from Persia as the result of the murder of American Consul Emrie will be devoted to education of Persian students in this country, under a proposal advanced by the state department. The department today made public a note delivered yesterday to the Persian government, proposing that the $10,000 which Persia has agreed to pay to meet the expenses of an American man of war for the return of the body to this country be devoted to "the establishment of a trust fund to be utilized for the education of Persian students at institutions of higher learning in the United States."

This would tend, the note said, "to promote the family relations between the two countries."

Menus for a Family

Tested by SISTER MARY

Meat Cakes
Two cups finely chopped cooked meat, 1/2 cup dried bread crumbs, 1 egg, milk to make moist, salt and pepper. Mix meat and bread crumbs with salt and pepper. Add egg, unbroken, and mix thoroughly with a fork. Add milk to make moist. The mixture should be too moist to mold with the hands. Shape between spoons and fry in hot drippings. Brown first on one side and then on the other.

Rice Griddle Cakes
Two cups boiled rice, 1 cup sour milk, 2 tablespoons melted butter, 1 cup flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon soda, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 egg. Hot or cold rice can be used but it must be carefully cooked and fluffy. Dissolve soda in milk. Add yolk of egg, milk and soda and salt to rice and beat well. Mix and sift flour and baking powder and beat into rice mixture. Beat white of egg until stiff and dry and fold into mixture. Bake on a hot, well-greased griddle. You may need one or two extra tablespoons of flour. Bake a little "try" cake before baking for the family.

Squash Pie
One cup sifted squash, 2-3 cup sugar, 1 1/2 cups milk, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 egg, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon, 1/2 teaspoon ginger.

Bake squash and rub through a fine strainer. Combine with sugar, butter, spices and salt. Beat egg slightly with milk. Stir into squash mixture and blend thoroughly. Pour into a pie pan lined with plain pastry and bake in a quick oven for the first five minutes to bake the pastry. Reduce heat and bake half an hour in a moderate oven to bake the custard.

MEN'S CLUB HOLDS SUPPER AND SOCIAL

Stained claims topped an excellent supper menu served in Dracut Centre church, last evening, when the Men's club gathered to hold its regular business meeting and social. Fifty members were present and Theodore T. Hazelwood of Haverhill, president and general manager of the Lajole Coal Co. of Lowell, was the speaker of the evening.

The clubmen who arranged for the supper included Ernest Mallie, James J. McManmon, George Mozley, and Clark M. Chrysler. President James Walsh, Jr. presided at the business meeting. Problems of forestry work in New England at large and near at home were discussed. Mr. McManmon leading off with an excellent review of modern programs followed in campaigns to increase the average of forestry lands.

Hazelwood's subject related to the coal business and some of its problems. He explained in detail how the home fuels are run through cleansing processes and thoroughly screened before being placed in delivery vans and delivered to the home bins.

LOWELL TEXTILE CATHOLIC CLUB

Supt. of Schools Hugh J. Molloy and Rev. John J. McGarry, D.C.L., pastor of St. Patrick's parish, were the principal speakers at a meeting of the Lowell Textile Catholic club, held last evening following a supper in Marie's restaurant.

President William Brennan was in charge of the meeting and introduced first Rev. Thomas J. McDonough of St. Patrick's, spiritual director of the club, who spoke briefly on the club's activities.

Mr. Molloy was the next speaker and he outlined the effect of science upon religion. In the course of his address he said that the more science a man absorbs, the more religious he becomes. He cited as an example the radio. "The more one thinks of this," he said, "the more one realizes that the ear, which receives the message, is even greater than the radio itself."

Mr. McGarry was the final speaker and in the course of his address he lauded the young men for the loyalty to their church and urged them to continue in the work they have started.

During the evening Theodore C. Cote entertained with piano selections and community singing was enjoyed.

TROOPS IN CONTROL

Quiet Has Been Restored at Scenes of Clashes Near Harrodsburg, Kentucky

HARRODSBURG, Ky., Nov. 11.—With six men in jail here charged with rioting and a detachment of Kentucky national guardsmen on duty at the Dix river dam, a hydro-electric project under construction here, quiet had been restored today at the scene of clashes early Monday between white workers and farmers and negro laborers.

The clashes resulted from the fatal shooting of Edward Whittle, white worker at the dam, in an attempted hold-up. A general exodus of negroes in the camp followed an attack by the white workers and farmers from the vicinity. When county officials reported they were unable to handle the situation, Governor W. J. Fields dispatched guardsmen from Frankfort. Indications were that the majority of the negroes, assured of protection had returned or were returning to work.

Ben Newmarks, Assistant Chief Marshal of Chicago, and Three Others Missing

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—Ben Newmarks, assistant chief marshal who was jailed on a charge of contempt in connection with the trial two years ago of Len Small, was sought today by federal agents on warrants charging counterfeiting liberty bonds and treasury savings stamps.

With him were named ten others, two of them women. Seventy other Chicagoans, several prominent politically, were said by federal agents to be involved. The operations affected banks here, in New York, and as far west as Oregon.

The counterfeiting was of a $5 revenue stamp. The fraud was not discovered until $200,000 worth of stamps had been cashed in the Chicago post-office. More than a half million dollars worth of the stamps have been cashed.

EMMA GOLDMAN TURNS AGAINST BOLSHEVISM

LONDON, Nov. 11.—Emma Goldman, who has made public her feeling toward the Bolsheviks, will be the best advocate of anti-Bolshevism to whom England has ever listened," says Rebecca West, the writer, in a statement to the Daily Express.

"She is a disappointed woman, thoroughly disillusioned with what she has seen in Russia," Miss West adds. "She welcomed her deportation to Russia from the United States as the opportunity of a life-time, but the time she spent in Russia changed her theories to a great extent, and Bolshevism is no longer her great enthusiasm."

Miss Goldman has been in London for several weeks, but her presence was not generally known until announced in the papers yesterday.

MEN WITH HOBBIES AND FINE LAXATIVE FOR CHILDRENFAT MEN GOOD RISKS

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 11.—Men with hobbies and fat men usually are good risks for surety companies, Fred M. Withey, vice-president of the National Surety company, today told members of the Columbus A.C. club.

"The man with a hobby," Mr. Withey said, "is a good moral risk because he is too busy with his pet subject to take other people's money; the fat man is a good risk because his thoughts centre on eating rather than on dissipation."

The man who is a better moral risk than the bachelor by a 5 to 1 ratio, and the violent and profane man is a good risk because he takes out his peevishness in swearing rather than in stealing, Withey said.

When men are more honest in business affairs than men, the speaker avowed. When they go wrong, he said, their pecuniaries usually are not large.

ADDRESSED LOWELL BAPTIST UNION

Rev. G. D. Fagan, in the course of an address on "The Social Ideas of Jesus Christ," delivered before the members of Lowell Baptist union, in Worthen Street Baptist church, last evening, declared that individual responsibility before God is a great ideal, but to be gained it must be lost in the common good.

He further emphasized this statement by saying: "Jesus Christ can counter to race prejudice when he was on earth."

Rev. Mr. Fagan is the newly installed pastor of First Baptist church and has already attracted much attention both inside and outside of the church parish by his sermons on timely subjects emphasizing the values to be derived by worshippers pursuing religious duties faithfully and regularly. The pastor's address last evening followed the monthly dinner and business meeting of the union. He said, in part:

"Some people think that social consciousness is a thing, because of the ill that are befalling in various parts of the globe. They speak of 'yellow peril' and of the evil that missionaries have wrought because they awoke the eastern people to a sense of the civilization that might be theirs under Christian auspices."

"I can't the only 'yellow peril' will come, if you people, who have brought the gospel to those formerly heathen, go back on our own cosmic or social consciousness and forget our ideals in the search for material advantage. The rebellion that is now being felt in some parts of the world is because of our lack of social compassion."

The forty-one passengers taken from the steamer are expected to arrive in port today or tomorrow on the steamship Tann. The United Fruit steamer Matanzas, owned by the Zaca until she was refloated, was bound from Colon to New York when she went aground. Great Inagua Island is about 100 miles northeast of Cuba.

GAINING OR LOSING WEIGHT

Those who tried in Anytown were convinced that there is no easy road either to gaining or reducing weight.

Some, after patient and long efforts, were successful. One thing is certain—the patent medicine devices insuring overnight results are not to be trusted.

In the matter of gaining weight several important physical essentials are necessary: The person should have or develop good digestion. He must have plenty of sleep and rest. Don't take the cares and worries to bed. A laugh-producing book just before retiring will develop a proper state of mind in many cases. Some find that eating fruit helps.

Eat your meals at regular times. Set a definite meal hour and stick to it as religiously as you stick to business appointments. Watch out for food bolting and select your foods from fat and starch containers. Get plenty of vegetables and select food for nutrition, rather than for bulk.

Lots of pure water; regular, but moderate, exercise and try to keep a cheerful disposition.

MISS FRENETTE HONOURED

Among those who entertained were the Misses Lillian and Edna Frenette, Leonard Boland, Grace Desloges, Mary Dussault and Martin Jussault. Refreshments were served by the Misses Lillian and Germaine Frenette and Rose Dubucque. Among the guests of the evening were Mr. and Mrs. William Roy, Miss Jeanne Frenette and Mr. Leonard Roy, all of Nashua, N. H.; Miss Claire Leamy and Miss Louise Boisvert of Lawrence and the Misses Lauretta and Germaine Pariseau of Malden. The affair was in charge of Miss Lillian Frenette, Miss Germaine Frenette, Miss Rose Dubucque, Henry Jussault and Louis Dupuis.

For Sleeplessness

Many people complain of sleeplessness.

Surely, Mr. Mann of Anytown was never bothered by such a trouble, and a great flood of worries generally muddled his head to such an extent that he was giddy to get sleep as an escape.

Until recently people thus troubled worried a great deal about the condition, but modern science teaches that there is no great cause for worry, as rest may be had without sleep and the evils have been exaggerated by the sufferers.

Nevertheless, since it does prove a mental disturber, there are a few simple aids that might be tried—and these involve getting a better circulatory distribution.

Get out of bed, stand erect and rise to tiptoe position. Repeat this rapidly until a good blood flow is left in the calf of the legs. This will indicate that the blood is leaving the head. Then lie down again, compose yourself and breathe deeply and rapidly. This will generally act in a relaxing way and sleep will soon follow.

IN NEW YORK

BY JAMES W. DEAN

NEW YORK, Nov. 31.—The spirit of the New York, past and present, is epitomized in an ancient graveyard that lies just off the Bowery near Chatham square.

It is in the shadow of the world's tallest buildings. It is a stone's throw from Chinatown and from the haunts of desperate criminals. The elevated trains roar by. Tenements box it in. And above the graves washings hang, dripping clothes almost sweeping the tops of tombstones.

This was the first Jewish graveyard in the United States. It was consecrated in 1656. Some of the tombstones have been standing almost three centuries.

Once it was the center of the Spanish and Portuguese Jewish colony, the first Jews to land in America. It was already a landmark during the revolutionary war and its site was used as a fortress at that time.

Times and men have marched on since then, but sentiment and tradition have remained immovable. Life is so crowded in that part of New York that it can hardly persist, but reverence for the dead protects the sanctuary of mouldering bones.

And there you have the symbolism of New York.

This vast fabric of humanity is shot through with tragedy, sadness, selfishness, enmity and avarice. But in it there are soft threads of sentiment.

And such a thread is this ancient Jewish graveyard, with its paradox of flapping clothes-lines and its revered tombstones.

Charlie Mathieu, dapper, nervous, popular newspaper editor, has lived in New York most of his life. He knows New York like your nose knows a rose, but he seldom visits Greenwich Village.

Last week, several ladies from Cincinnati were guests at his home. They wanted to see New York, so Charlie volunteered to act as escort. Arriving at Washington square, he asked a policeman where to go, what place would be a good one in which to show the out-of-towners a bit of life.

"You'd better go home," the cop answered. "They rob you in these places. You get a big check and you see nothing but four fingers."

Still determined to explore the lairs of long-haired men and short-haired women, Mathieu approached five other cops.

And they all told him the same thing.

A friend of Pete Havenaugh, the actor, told me a little story about him today.

Some time back Pete had quite a roll in his pocket. It was late at night and, fearing a hold-up, he put some of the bills in the sweatband of his hat.

And he was held up. And slugged over the head.

He awoke in a hospital, suffering with a mild form of amnesia. He lost weight and when he left the hospital his hat was a bit large.

It wasn't until he started to stuff paper in the sweatband that he found his forgotten wealth.

Famous East Room Now

Has Solemn Air

BY HARRY H. BUNT, N. E. A. Service Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 31.—Events of the last 15 months have changed the whole atmosphere of the great East Room of the White House.

Hitherto it always has been regarded as the hub of Washington's social activities. It has been a place for festivities, for parties, receptions, dances. Its suggestion always has been one of cheer, of happiness, of gaiety.

Today, however, there is a sense of oppression, a suggestion of sadness, that is felt by all who enter it. Its echoing emptiness is no longer that of a brilliant ballroom, but rather that of a funeral chapel.

Four times in but little over a year has this room, so often the scene of the capital's most brilliant social affairs, been the setting for a funeral. First it was President Harding. Then Mrs. Work, wife of the secretary of the interior. Then young Calvin Coolidge, Jr., and lastly Secretary of Agriculture Wallace.

This procession of tragedies through the great state parlor has, somehow, altered its atmosphere—that mysterious quality by which places as well as persons influence the moods of visitors. The suggestion of laughing, dancing gaiety is gone. In its place is the brooding, heavy quiet of a sepulcher.

The Washington society for the last fortnight has been "up in the air" over Captain George W. Steele, who came over from Germany with the 28-3 and is to command this biggest of the Zeppelins.

Steele has been the social lion of the hour. No less than a dozen parties have been thrown for him in as many days.

Mrs. Catherine New, wife of the postmaster general, herself formerly an authoress, thinks that while Mark Twain may have been all right as a writer he was a rotten politician.

Mrs. New's observations follow a reading of Twain's autobiography, just out, which the humorist stipulated should not be published until 10 years after his death. In the course of these memoirs Twain severely criticized Roosevelt and General Leonard Wood, both good republicans, and thereby moved Mrs. New to protest.

"Twain was a muckworm," she declares, "therefore his political affiliations and views were generally not based on knowledge or judgment but on prejudice. It is all right to vote for the best man for sheriff or school superintendent, but in national politics no man is better than his party. If Twain had confined himself to what he knew and not wandered off into the unknown field of politics his opinions would carry more weight."

Even as thoroughgoing a politician as the postmaster general himself could not have quoted orthodox party creed more accurately.

Air service headquarters get some odd explanations as reason for forced landing or delayed flights. But the freest is held to be that of Lieut. Bob Wimsatt, who has made a landing near Fort Worth while en route to Brooks Field, San Antonio, Tex.

"Delayed due to cow eating wing," said the wire Wimsatt sent to the commanding officer at San Antonio.

Next day, on his arrival, Wimsatt showed a number of small patches on the lower wing panels and stabilizer where he swore a cow with the appetite of an ostrich had made a square meal.

Nothing like press agenting one's self.

The Bone and Sinew

The readers of THE SUN are the bone and sinew of Lowell. They are practically all Lowell people who have helped to make the city what it is.

They earn their living in Lowell; they spend their money in Lowell; they are the main support of the Lowell merchants.

SUN readers are not in the habit of running to Boston for their supplies. They trade at home.

They are the largest body of newspaper readers in the city, and few of them read any other paper because they don't need to.

There is only one way for the merchant to reach this large, thrifty, industrious and intelligent body of readers, and that is through the columns of THE SUN.

Leatrice Happy in New Role—Mother

BY JACK JUNGMEYER

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 31.—Baby hands may write bills to the brilliant screen career of Leatrice Joy.

At the present time the star of "The Ten Commandments," "Manlaughter," "Triumph," and many other super-pictures, stands undecided.

She is weighing the future in mental scales. On the one side is added fame, added fortune, a career; on the other is a few pounds of a baby girl.

"I do not see how continuance of my screen career can be reconciled to my duty to my baby," declares Miss Joy, "and unless there can be such reconciliation, I shall abandon pictures."

This is her answer to the directors, most particularly to Cecil B. DeMille, who has been persistent in efforts that she sign a contract.

The person who has wrought such havoc in Hollywood film circles is suddenly unconscious of it all, as she, Leatrice Junior, is just six weeks old, a cooling bit of baby who nevertheless centers in all her mother's dreams of the future.

"Look," says Miss Joy, holding the baby out for inspection. "Now can you imagine any sacrifice too great for such a wonderful youngster, old."

"If they want me on the screen, my hours must be arranged with first consideration for Little Leatrice."

But this is asking much, payrolls mounting rapidly while supports, directors, electricians, and extras stand around idle, waiting for the star's return from the nursery. It is doubtful if the demand could be met with any hope of financial success.

Miss Joy's earliest ambition was for a home and motherhood. It is to this that she abandons a triumph gained only through the most persistent of heart-breaking work, and a staunchness against early career poverty.

Miss Joy is still in her early twenties, but she has crowded much into her life since she was queen of the New Orleans Mardi Gras in 1918.

It was this queenship that won her a $50 per week position with a traveling motion picture organization. But Miss Joy soon found herself minus occupation. She went to New York.

Here began her struggle for film occupation, five months without work while her bank roll dwindled. Finally a two-reel comedy company signed her for the magnificent wages of $20 a week.

But Miss Joy found the $20 insufficient to provide food, shelter, wardrobe and traveling expenses. In 1919, she left for Hollywood.

Here began another siege of non-employment, not a job from March to July, then a few days as extra at $3 and $5 a day.

Miss Joy was hungry and discouraged, when she was "discovered" by Director George Tucker, and given a part as third lead at $45 a week.

This was the turning point. In 1920 Goldwyn signed her for a year at $50 and in 1921 De Mille gave her her first real salary on the "First National-Paramount lot."

In 1922 she married Jack Gilbert, film actor, a marriage which ran a short course of domestic incompatibility, and dissolution of which now awaits decision in the local divorce courts. Separation of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert occurred a month prior to the birth of Little Leatrice.

"Before Leatrice arrived, I thought nothing could equal the happiness of stardom," Miss Joy says.

"The finest other thing in the world cannot compare with motherhood—and so my mind is all made up on one point, that nothing shall interfere with my care of my baby."

AIDS TO SLEEP
"If you would sleep well, avoid excitement before retiring."

This is a standard remedy advised by the Mann family doctor, particularly in the case of children who are prone to be restless if some exciting pastime or game has preceded retirement.

A hot bath before retiring is also frequently beneficial for those inclined to suffer from sleeplessness. A mustard footbath is still another aid.

A watch on the evening meal has been recommended by some doctors. They advise that the meal be meatless, or nearly so, and, in any event, that it be a light one. Elimination of tea and coffee at night also has been advised.

Sleeping out of doors has been found an aid to sleep by many, and such a simple thing as removing some of the coverings has been found beneficial.

A main thing to remember is not to worry about it, if wakeful, for this merely irritates the condition.

Long Run Wins Fame

LEFT TO RIGHT: DONALD MEEK, COACH CHARLES BACHMAN.

Back in 1905 the Kansas Agricultural college football team beat the University of Kansas. Since that time the meeting between these two eleven's has been an interrupted series of defeats for the Aggies, until the present season. A 67-yard run by a substitute halfback, a diminutive 135-pound farm boy, resulted in the only score of the game. Prior to the contest Donald Meek was just a member of the Aggies' football squad, comparatively unknown, waiting for his chance. It came in the big game with Kansas. Zuber, the star 215-pound halfback of the Kansas team, fumbled the ball well within the opposition's territory.

Gridiron Gossip

The final lap is on. Local teams enter the home stretch under full steam. The city championship will be decided on the afternoon of Thanksgiving day when the Butler A.A. and O.M.I. Cadets, leading contenders for titular honors, clash at Alumni field, the scene of two previous championship struggles. May the better team win.

The Indians are out of the running, at least for senior honors. Their defeat at the hands of the St. Peter's Cadets followed by a decisive O.M.I. kicking puts them out of the race completely. They went down fighting, however.

The St. Peter's Cadets have a worthy claim to honors. Having gone through the season without a defeat being chalked against them, the young soldiers are deserving of a place in the final reckoning. To remain in the fight, however, they must meet either the O.M.I. Cadets or the Butlers, and at this writing it appears that the Butlers have the call.

The Centralville Ponies and the Kenwood Hovers have also faded out of the picture as far as the championship is concerned. Both teams have succumbed to the O.M.I. Cadets. The Ponies have a date with the Wildcats soon, and then comes their objective contest with the Rovers on the Sunday after Thanksgiving.

Hoston's big professional team, the Vera Marquettes, kicked Neponset Sunday by a 20 to 0 figure.

The ultimate winner of the Frank Hildard trophy and the city bunting is problematical. All things considered, it will be the best game ever staged in the city of Lowell and one worth going miles to see. Fans from Lawrence, Boston and surrounding towns who are acquainted with the fighting calibre of these two teams, already are making reservations for tickets for Alumni field.

The O.M.I.'s showed wonderful staying qualities by engaging in two games in two days. To win both of them is another question. The Cadets got off to a poor start this season, but came back strong and are now in the best shape of their lives.

The Butlers didn't have to produce much to whip the South Boston team in Sunday's game on the Fair grounds. Even with Red O'Hare and Ev. Jettison out of the lineup, the Butlers delivered the goods in spectacular style. The score does not indicate their real strength, for it was estimated that the Upper-Gorham street boys could have registered at least two more touchdowns with a little concentrated effort.

The Cadets and Butlers will have to be careful in their remaining games up to Thanksgiving. Injuries will prove a big handicap to both outfits at this stage of the season.

Congratulations to the managements of the Butlers and Cadets for having their players numbered. The fans appreciate the innovation.

The Malden Lafayette, who were recently being groomed for a tilt with the Butlers, were defeated Sunday by the Bunker Hill Panthers of Charlestown. The score was 7 to 0.

The Newton Lion Tamers are looking for games with Lowell teams averaging 125 pounds. Communications should be addressed to William La Vort, 57 Freeman street, Andover, Mass.

The Chelsea naval hospital team, which is due to play the O.M.I. Cadets here next Sunday, demonstrated their strength Sunday by defeating the Seltwater A.A. by a score of 16 to 7. The sailors scored in every period.

The St. Augustine's of South Boston, once scheduled to play St. Peter's Cadets took a drubbing from the Cambridge A.A. 7 to 0.

A crowd of 15,000 saw the St. Alphonse and Fitton game in Boston Sunday. The Saints won by a 6-0 score.

The Linwoods, who lost to the O.M.I. Cadets, 6-0, on the old Fair grounds Sunday, was composed mostly of Ayer city players. So far this season, the Cadet Seconds have gone undefeated and result of their many victories, they claim the 110-115 pound championship of the city. Any team disputing the claim will be accommodated by calling 975-J. The Cadets are anxious to take a crack at the Bowers J.C. the local eleven for Thanksgiving day as a preliminary to the O.M.I. Cadet-Butler fiasco. In last Sunday's game, the Seconds used a new ball donated by Louis J. Lord, a considerable large aspirant. Sincere thanks were extended to the donor.

To look at Harvard Joe McGlone, one would never get the impression that he was a football player. Small in stature and unassuming, he does not give the appearance of being the star that he is.

Lucraft and McGlone played side by side on a soccer team in France. "Lucky" was a quarterback then.

Reports from down the river are to the effect that Lawrence expects to defeat Haverhill by four touchdowns.

As practically every big college play has been attempted by local teams this year, we look for Princeton's famous "huddle" play to be tried out here soon. It bewildered the Harvard Crimson.

The game between the Butlers and the St. Peter's Cadets is on. At a conference this morning between Manager Walsh of the Butlers and Manager Rogers of the St. Peter's arrangements were completed, and the conflict will be waged on the old Fair grounds next Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Nothing more need be said, except that it will be a battle royal.

In Scully, Coach Fiston of the high school squad, has what he has been looking for all year—a clever field general. The team was handled better Saturday. In Scully than any high school team we have seen this year. Every play was placed where it should be.

The Lowell-Anesbury game at Alumni field Saturday should be worth seeing. Anesbury has a hard-fighting crew of huskies and will put up a good exhibition before the final gun is fired.

The value of a line coach was proven Saturday. The Rieroff coached Lowell line was in the game every minute. One great improvement was noticed and one that will assist greatly the remainder of the season—the whole Lowell outfit was tackling low, whereas earlier in the season they had been tackling around their opponents' necks.

Lawrence high has allotted Lowell high 3000 tickets as its share for the Thanksgiving classic. This number should be far below the demand for this game. Lowell has been accused for failure to back her team, but with a winner such as Lawrence's eleven, there is no doubt but that the team will get splendid support.

The Tremonts of Lawrence and the Buffaloes of Lawrence, the down-river city's two leading contenders for city championship honors, battled to a scoreless tie at O'Sullivan park, Lawrence, Sunday afternoon. From the accounts of the game, the Tremonts appeared to have a better club than the Buffaloes, but lacked the touch-down punch.

The Lawrence Parkvales lost to the Waverleys of North Andover by a 7-0 count.

Lawrence papers say Lowell press writers at the Haverhill game last Saturday nearly had heart failure when Lowell scored its first touch-down in 14 years. The second attack is always more dangerous, they say. We're prepared for it when it comes, and it's coming in due old Sullivan park, Lawrence, next Thanksgiving day in the morning.

The Franklin A. C. was scheduled to play the Riverside A. A. on the North common, and were disappointed when the latter team failed to show. This is the second time in two weeks they failed to appear. Manager Walter Boland of the Franklins is inclined to think that the Riverside are an invisible football team.

The University A. C. of Peabody, recent conquerors of the O.M.I. Cadets, defeated the Village A.A. of Roxbury last Sunday by a score of 7 to 6.

With the game two weeks away, when Canisius college will be played at Worcester, the R. X. manager will take things easy this week. The team has an open date next Saturday. Joe Nolan, Lowell boy, is captain of the Canisius eleven, and Sullivan, another Lowell boy, plays a guard position. They will take a trip home after the game.

In regard to the scheduled game between the Bowers R. X. and the Cumberlands on the North common last Sunday, the R. X. manager wishes to state that his team was present on the ground, but that the Cumberlands did not appear. The Bowers team is willing to play the Cumberlands next Saturday afternoon on the North common. The Bowers are claiming that the Young Cadets are afraid to meet them. The claim of the immaculate conception to the 110-115 pound championship in another argument disputed by the Bowers.

Practice for all Bowers R. X. players will be held every night this week. Full attendance is imperative.

The Butler Independents are looking for a game for next Sunday with any 130-135 lb. team in the city. Answer through this paper.

John Griffin, the (John Levi) of the independents, has a record for amateur footballers to shoot at. Griffin has thrown the ball sixty-five yards. In the fastest backs in the state. Griffin is the highest point scorer on the eleven, having carried the ball twelve times for touchdowns and eight of these were between fifty to sixty yard runs—a total of 70 points. The Independents call him their Triple Threat.

The Independents are out for the championship this year and they hope to attain such honors. This year the Butlers and it had picking to get games with local eleven. All players are requested to report for practice this evening at Butler park.

CHICAGO WHITE SOX PLAN TRADE

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—Johnny Mostil, centerfielder of the Chicago American League, may be used as a pawn in a future trade, possibly with the St. Louis Americans, according to indications at the Chicago White Sox headquarters. Mostil is in Europe with the White Sox and is a probable opponent for the shortstop berth, although there is discussion that Urban Shocker, veteran "left" artist of the St. Louis Browns, may be the objection.

PLANS ACTIVE CAMPAIGN
NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Benny Leonard plays an active indoor ring campaign, he said today in confirming reports he had tentatively agreed to defend his title at Los Angeles in February. He said no definite arrangements had been made but mentioned Phil Salvador as a probable opponent on the strength of reports he had defeated Joe Benjamin.

JUSTICE GOFF DEAD PAY TRIBUTE TO SEN. LODGE

Presided at Molineaux, Patrick, Becker and Other Noted Murder Trials

Was Prominent Irish-American Leader—Close Friend of Chas. S. Parnell

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—John W. Goff, who was counsel for the Lexow committee and who, as recorder and supreme court justice, presided at the Molineaux, Patrick, Becker and other noted murder trials, is dead. He contracted pneumonia when he went to vote on election day and died last night. It was in his 74th year and after retiring from the bench in 1918, two years before the expiration of his term, because he had reached the age limit of seventy.

Justice Goff was born in Wexford, Ireland, Jan. 1, 1848, and came to the United States, a penniless orphan. He went to Cooper Institute at night after working long hours in an office, to gain an education.

Admitted to the bar in 1878, he rapidly gained prominence and was appointed assistant district attorney in 1888. Later he was chosen by the Lexow senatorial committee to investigate charges of corruption in the police department.

After 12 years as recorder, the last New York ever had, he was elected to the supreme bench from the first district.

Many famous criminal cases came before him, perhaps the best known of which is the celebrated trial of the "kissers" of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler.

When a boy in Ireland, his closest friend was Charles Stewart Parnell, the Irish liberator.

Justice Goff was one of the men who sent the New Bedford, Mass., whaling ship Catalpa to Australia to release a group of Irish political prisoners in 1876. The Catalpa was commanded by the late Captain George Anthony of New Bedford.

THIRTY REBELS KILLED

LIBERALISM NOT DEAD, SAYS ASQUITH

LONDON, Nov. 10.—(By the Associated Press)—Former Premier Asquith, leader of the liberal party, the losses of which in the recent elections have given concern in its supporters, said in an address at a luncheon of liberal members of parliament today that there was no use of disguising the serious nature of the party's setback. He asserted, however, that liberalism was far from dead and he incidentally revealed that a small committee of experts was already working on a complete organization for the party which needed, he said, "an overhauling from top to bottom."

$12,000 BANK ROBBERY AT WEST WINFIELD

SENTENCED TO DIE IN CHAIR

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Julius W. Wilkins, Harlem negro cabaret owner. Notice of appeal was filed.

GOVERNOR COX TO NAME SUCCESSOR

BOSTON, Nov. 10.—Although it was intimated today at the office of Gov. Cox that no steps toward naming a successor to Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, who died last night, will be taken until after the funeral, set for Wednesday, the probable selection of the governor was under discussion in political circles. Under an act passed last year the governor has authority to fill the vacancy in the senate until the next general election in the state which will be in 1926.

Those prominently mentioned in connection with the senate seat are William M. Butler, chairman of the republican national committee, and Speaker Benjamin Loring Young, of the state house of representatives. Supporters of Mr. Butler urge his services to the party in the recent presidential campaign as giving him a claim. Speaker Young, on the other hand, stood aside from the contest of the senatorial nomination to oppose

Public Men of All Stations Join in Expression of Grief at Death of Senator

President Coolidge Takes Lead in Outpouring of a Nation's Tribute

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Public men of all stations joined today in expressions of grief and regret at the death of Henry Cabot Lodge.

President Coolidge took the lead in the outpouring of a nation's tribute to the career and attainments of the Massachusetts senator. And many of his colleagues in congress likewise issued statements praising his long and distinguished service in the senate and house.

As soon as he reached the executive offices, the president prepared a message of sympathy to the bereaved relatives. He also designated Secretary Weeks and Captain Adolphus Andrews, his naval aide, to represent him at the funeral. Secretary Weeks was for several years a colleague of Senator Lodge as a member of the senate from Massachusetts.

In a formal statement the president declared Mr. Lodge had been "one of the great men of our time."

"Senator Lodge was a prominent figure in Massachusetts before I knew anything about the public affairs of that commonwealth," the president said. "For a long time he has been our senior senator. He was the floor leader of the senate.

"This is not the occasion to undertake to review the position he has filled and the work he has done. It is enough now to recall that he has been one of the great men of our time. He had a wide knowledge and a wonderful facility of expression. His influence has been worldwide. A large collection of his writings and speeches are left to us which will be not only of historical interest, but of permanent literary value."

"Full of years, bearing the honors that have never ceased to be bestowed in increasing number, he has been gathered to his fathers."

Secretary Hughes made the following statement:

"The death of Senator Lodge removes one of the outstanding figures in our public life. He was a man of great intellectual power and rare culture, and his career forms a highly important chapter in the history of the country."

In senate circles, where Senator Lodge had served for so many years, his death made a profound impression.

Senator Borah's Tribute

Senator Borah who by seniority is number 5 at the head of the foreign relations committee, made this statement:

"Senator Lodge was in the fullest, finest sense, the scholar in politics. His death not only removes one of the striking figures of this era, but terminates in some respects a regime. We shall long miss him in the body which he graced for so many years."

Senator Lodge of North Dakota, a member of the La Follette group in the senate, asserted that "the conservative party in America has lost its greatest leader."

It was said by Senator Swanson of Virginia, ranking democratic member of the foreign relations committee, that no other man in public life was "more thoroughly acquainted with our varied governmental affairs, and no one was more potential in the senate."

FLOODS AGAIN HIT SUBURBS OF PARIS

PARIS, Nov. 10.—Inhabitants of the eastern suburbs of Paris, heavy sufferers in the January floods, are again undergoing a visitation of the waters. The river rose six feet during the last week. For several days it kept within its banks and a spell of cold dry weather gave hope that the flood would pass off without damage, but yesterday the river rose six feet during the day and an additional rise of six feet is predicted before the maximum is reached tomorrow.

As the protective works ordered after the January floods have not yet been completed the riverside quarters are again under water, notably Neuilly-sur-Seine, Nogent, Joinville, St. Maurice and Alfortville. Paris itself appears to be in no danger.

CALL PEOPLE TO CHURCH TO SOUND THE ROLL CALL

Newspaper Advertising By Churches Urged by Federal Council of Churches

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Newspaper advertising by churches throughout the country is urged as part of the campaign to "call people to the church" in a statement issued today by the federal council of churches.

Co-operation by business offices of newspapers to make the advertising effective has been asked by the church organization, and will be in addition to church items printed in news columns.

Dr. Charles L. Goodell, secretary of the commission, explained that, since "news columns cannot as a rule carry the straight gospel messages, its place in the advertising columns" in this way, he said, the church can reach people who never enter the church.

Today friends who wished to pay their last tribute went to the home of Dr. William Skurges Bigelow, 115 West Street, where the body was taken direct from the hospital.

GIRL ATTACKED IN COLONIAL AVENUE

While walking along Colonial avenue, between Moody and Riverside streets, last night, Mrs. Ida Verville, wife of the late Mr. Verville, was attacked by an unknown assailant, who lifted her over a wooden fence and threw her down the bank bordering on the Merrimack river. Her outcries attracted the attention of neighbors in the vicinity, however, and her assailant escaped along the river bank before he could be apprehended or identified.

Mrs. Verville was on her way to the home of her parents when the assault occurred. The man threw his arms about her neck and waist and lifted her bodily over the fence, then jumped over himself. He evidently became alarmed at the girl's outcries and hastened away in the darkness.

The young bride was in a hysterical condition when taken to the home of her parents, and was so upset over the occurrence that she was unable to describe her assailant.

The matter has not been reported to the police.

COTTON WASTE FIRE IN PICKER ROOM

Blazing cotton waste in the picker room of the Merrimack Utilization Company, on the fourth floor of their mill building in Warren street, resulted in a telephone alarm to headquarters at 10:15 this morning.

The blaze started in waste near the picker machinery but was stopped before it spread into any great extent by the automatic sprinkler system. When firemen arrived a few bowls of waste were burning and these were quickly extinguished.

Water from the sprinkler system poured over the section in which the fire originated and while officials of the company could not give any estimate of the damage today, they stated that its water damage would be far in excess of the actual fire damage.

13 BUSTER, THE NURSE GIRL

TO TEST VOLSTEAD ACT

Judge Soper to Rule Whether Jury Must Decide Intoxicating Content of Juices

BALTIMORE, Nov. 11.—Whether the Volstead act prohibits the manufacture of elder or fruit juices of more than one-half of one per cent alcoholic content for use at home or whether a jury must decide the intoxicating content of juices so manufactured, was the question raised by Judge Morris A. Soper, in federal court.

This question was raised yesterday by District Attorney Woodcock, in the trial of Representative John Philip Hill, of Baltimore, indicted for illegal manufacture and possession of wine and elder containing more than one-half of one per cent, alcohol.

Mr. Woodcock raised the point when he objected to the second question put to the first defense witness, Dr. John J. McGinly, admitting that he had analyzed Mr. Hill's "elder party" recently. Dr. McGinly was not permitted to state whether he had seen any one there intoxicated.

The government closed its case after introducing expert chemists who testified that the alcoholic content of Mr. Hill's elder ranged from .06 to .27 per cent and that of the wine from .334 to .1164 per cent.

PLAQUE

Dr. Wu Says One Germ Responsible for Both Bubonic and Pneumonic Plagues

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 11.—One germ is responsible for both the bubonic and the pneumonic plagues, according to Dr. Wu Lien Teh, director in chief of the North Manchurian plague service, who is pushing special research work and studies at the Johns Hopkins school of hygiene and public health here. Dr. Wu is said to be one of the foremost authorities on the pneumonic plague, which recently has claimed many lives in Los Angeles.

In the case of bubonic plague, says Dr. Wu, the germ attacks the lymph glands. It is not contagious, he declared, being transmitted by fleas on diseased rodents.

When it develops in the pneumonic form, however, the germ is carried by the patient's cough and this is spread with great rapidity, the doctor asserted. This form is more fatal than the bubonic plague. Dr. Wu says, the death rate approaching 100 per cent. He added that with good sanitary control and strict isolation of those infected, the pneumonic plague may be speedily controlled.

Already a number of course tickets have been disposed of. Single tickets may be procured at the office of the Auditorium on the evenings of presentations.

SCARLET FEVER SPREADS IN MANCHESTER

MANCHESTER, N. H., Nov. 11.—Dr. Howard A. Streeter, city health officer, stated today that the scarlet fever situation here did not warrant the closing of the schools, despite the fact that the fever had increased during the past three weeks, and city officials had discussed the possibilities of ordering the schools closed.

Speaking about the local situation, Dr. Streeter said in his opinion as a health official he did not deem the situation here alarming.

Reviewing the situation he said that the first case of scarlet fever was reported in November, 1923, and since then the city had not been free from the disease.

About three weeks ago scarlet fever cases had increased over the average number and since then it grew until at the present there are 120 cases in quarantine, said Dr. Streeter. He explained that the 120 cases do not represent 120 families, as there are instances of two, three and four cases in a single household. At present there are 47 scarlet fever patients at the isolation hospital.

Over the week-end, city officials found it necessary to consider extra appropriations for the health board as the end of the year found the department funds low.

Big Vote Expected in Primary Election of tabulating votes. The votes cast for mayoralty candidates must be counted first and these results tabulated to city hall at once. Under this plan the mayoralty nominees should be known by 10 o'clock. Today's ballot is easy to handle and will be fairly easy to count inasmuch as the courier system will be possible.

One police officer will be on duty at every precinct between the hours of 10 a. m. and 4 p. m. and two officers from 4 p. m. until closing time at 8 o'clock.

Mayoralty candidates in particular are making unusual efforts to get out a large vote. Headquarters have been established in most instances and persons desiring transportation to and from the polls may get it by telephone messages. Some counselor candidates, too, are using automobile transportation to a considerable extent, all of which will have a distinct tendency to increase the size of the vote.

No municipal campaign in recent years reached its climax and came to an end with such a swirl of emotions and in such a riot of enthusiasm and color. Last night was hectic from one end of the town to the other and until the hour of midnight there was no almost continuous cheering backed by truck loads of cheering partisans, red fire, noise making devices, cheers and hysterical cajoling.

Upwards of 4500 men, women and children, pushed, crowded, crashed, subterfused, pleaded, threatened and fought their way into the Memorial Auditorium until fire officials called a halt and police reserves were rushed to the cheering mob that still hammered the doors of the door, balcony and back-stage gallery floor, and parent, all were filled to overflowing and every aisle held its human quota.

Thirty-five candidates, including eight of the nine mayoralty aspirants, were heard and cheers rang out almost impartially and applause was spontaneous and almost there without the aid of any one of the candidates "pulled" better than others, but as a general rule everyone was in high favor and greetings could in no manner be marked as indicative of public feeling.

The forum was presided over by Charles H. Holston, chairman of the board of trustees, with Major Estes and Thomas P. Boulger giving assistance. The speech-making got under way promptly at 8 o'clock and continued without intermission for three hours. It was an oratorical outburst the like of which the city seldom experiences and resulted in as many conflicting emotions as a leopard has spots.

The board of trustees were conscious that some candidates did not hold their own in the line of arranging the speaking program and made an explanation that the big majority of requests received from candidates were for scheduled times between 9 and 9:30 p. m. The trustees pointed out that this was impossible to do because of the large number of applicants and therefore decided to give the first ten applicants the available time between 9 and 9:30, the second ten between 9:30 and 9 and the third ten between 9 and 9:30 o'clock.

Davis Would Retire From the Cabinet

Secretary Wallace of the agricultural department is to be filled shortly. The law specifies that the term of an acting secretary can run for only thirty days. Mr. Coolidge may appoint Acting Secretary Gore to the cabinet to serve until March 4, however, when he becomes governor of West Virginia.

While House officials appear to take no stock in numerous reports that the president might display a changed attitude now that the election is over and he has been chosen to the chief magistracy in his own right. Some of these reports have indicated that he might desire to ask for the resignation of some of the holdover cabinet members in order to make personal selections.

Nevertheless, it is known that at least one or two of those who now hold cabinet posts, desire for one reason or another to return to private life and it remains to be determined whether Mr. Coolidge can persuade them to stay in the government service.

The plaintiff's alleged that an automobile being driven by Adams in Princeton street on November 7, 1923, struck the Guimette boy, causing serious injury. MORE LOCAL RECRUITS FOR THE NAVY

The local navy recruiting station, in charge of Chief R. R. Frederiek, is constantly holding the record for number of recruits accepted in any sub-station in the Boston district.

Yesterday afternoon and this morning, three recruits were accepted at the local office and approved at Boston headquarters for enlistment. They are John Bledron, 71 Adams street; Lloyd McCullough, 17 Queen street; and Arthur Gagnon, 583 Market street. Each expressed preference for service as seaman and were ordered to the naval station at Newport, R. I., for the customary eight weeks training before being detailed to ship duty.

Hardly a week goes by that Chief Frederiek does not receive from ship commanders or officers of the training schools where Lowell boys are in service, letters of commendation for the quality of the Lowell recruits. It is expected that the chief will remain in this city at least five months longer, and he said this morning that regardless of anything which might occur in this period, he intends to accept only boys of first-class character for the navy so that Lowell will maintain the record it already has in the navy of furnishing the best men in every branch of the service.

DERELICT MAY BE THE LEIF ERICSSON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Reports have reached the cruiser Trenton in the North Atlantic, that a derelict corresponding in dimensions to the missing motor yacht Leif Ericsson, was sighted recently at sea in that vicinity.

The Trenton has been unable to find the wreck but is searching that vicinity and has broadcast a request to all vessels asking that a strict watch be kept.
